HISTORY

The Criminal Justice Program was established in 1972 as a unit within the Department of Political Science and became a Department of Criminal Justice in 1992. Its graduate program was established in 1984. The department serves more than 600 undergraduate Criminal Justice majors. It is home to three centers of excellence: the Juvenile Justice Institute, the Institute for Homeland Security and Workforce Development, and the Center for the Advancement of Justice Studies and Policy. The department's undergraduate distance education program was established in 1999 in collaboration with the N.C. State Highway Patrol. Today, the distance education program offers a seamless transition from community colleges.

OUR MISSION

To prepare students to become leaders, outstanding practitioners, scholars and advocates for social justice in a diverse and global society.
