Preface

Dear Colleagues and Friends of NCCU:

It is with great pleasure that I present to you, the NCCU 2000-2001 Fact Book, FACTS 2000. This year's edition of FACTS, with it's redesigned charts, graphics, tables, and fonts, represents a further refining of the collection and presentation of data and information about the University.

Like its predecessors, this year's Fact Book is presented to provide an authoritative and statistical compendium of information that will serve as your first reliable source of institutional data and summary information; and as an aid to planning, evaluation, and decision-making.

Although FACTS 2000 provides facts and figures that can only provide a very cold, one-dimensional portrait of NCCU and its vibrant, ambitious, and intelligent community, the information contained herein undoubtedly provides a valuable resource for numerical and anecdotal information that presents a historical context in which to review the University's history and development.

The Office of Research, Evaluation and Planning designed, developed, and produced the NCCU Fact Book. The mission of the Office of Research, Evaluation and Planning is to enhance the Institutional Effectiveness of NCCU by coordinating the University's planning and evaluation processes, institutional data collection, analysis, information dissemination, and reporting to the public on the activities and achievements of the University programs and services; and using these processes to assist units in making policy and informed decisions. An integrated part of this mission is to provide information that supports and strengthens operations management and decision-making processes at the University, and to continually improve the level and quality of our services and products.

Accordingly, we always welcome refinements to the FACTS. A form is presented on page (vi) for your convenience, should you wish to offer any comments, and or suggestions for the improvement of this publication. We also welcome any inquiries growing out of your efforts to interpret or utilize the information presented in this publication. An electronic version of the book will be made available in the future through the office WEBPAGE @ (www.nccu.edu/offices/REP/factsbk.htm). The office can be reached by various means: telephone (919-530-6367), by fax (919-530-7973) or by e-mail (rep@nccu.edu).

The successful completion of this year's publication would not have been possible without the dedicated and innovative, hardworking, caring, and supportive staff of the office. Special thanks to Ms. Sandra Davis, Ms. Helen Faucette, Mr. JianPing Yu, Mrs. Sylvia Seward, Mrs. Margaret Harrison, Mr. Chinasa Ukpabi, all staff of NCCU, and others, especially our Fact Book Consultant, Dr. Jan Upton of IRCorp, who contributed in one way or the other for the successful completion of this edition, for without their assistance, this year's FACTS could not have been this all encompassing.

Sincerely,

Dr. Fitzpatrick U. Anyanwu, Head of Division and Director
Office of Research, Evaluation and Planning

Celebrating the Chambers Years at North Carolina Central University

North Carolina Central University paid tribute to Julius L. Chambers on Saturday, May 19, 2001. Chambers is retiring after eight years as Chancellor in June.

Chambers was born east of Charlotte in Mt. Gilead, North Carolina on October 6, 1936. He decided on a career in law at the tender age of 12 when his father was unable to get legal representation. He was student body president of North Carolina College (now NCCU) in 1954. In 1962 he graduated from the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill where he was ranked first in his class of 100. While there he was the first African-American editor-in-chief of the North Carolina Law Review. He earned his Master of Law degree at Columbia University Law School in 1963.

Chambers was selected by Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall s the first intern for the NAACP Legal Defense Fund. He worked at the first integrated law firm in North Carolina, a firm at the forefront of the civil rights movement. In 1984 he became Director-Counsel of the NAACP Legal Defense and Education Fund. He has taught in the law schools at the universities of Harvard, Columbia, Virginia and Pennsylvania.

Chambers has received the Distinguished Alumni Awards from the Columbia University School of Law and from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. He has been awarded the Courageous Advocacy Award from the American College of Trial Lawyers, the Kelly M. Alexander Sr. Humanitarian Award, the Aetna Voice of Conscience Award, the Congressional Black Caucus Foundation's Adam Clayton Powell Award for Legislative and Legal Perfection and the Josephine D. Clement Award for Exemplary Community Leadership for Public Education in Durham.

Chambers has been affiliated with the University of North Carolina system for many years. In the 1970s he was a member of the Board of Trustees at NCCU. From 1972-1977 he served as NCCU's representative on the Board of Governors of the Consolidated University of North Carolina. He became Chancellor of North Carolina Central University on January 1, 1993. At NCCU Chambers has played a significant role getting state and private funding to transform NCCU from an under financed undergraduate college into a major research institution. During the Chambers years two buildings were added to the campus, the Julius L. Chambers Biotechnology Research Institute and the New School of Education.

Chambers has worked to raise admission standards, establish an honors curriculum, develop international programs and promote the recruitment of a racially diverse student body. He has created endowed chairs and encouraged faculty and departments to raise their academic credentials. A centerpiece of the Chambers years has been NCCU's community service program, a learning model that requires NCCU students to engage in a community service projects in Durham and throughout the state.

Chancellor Chambers plans to return to Charlotte to practice law. One objective, he says, will be to work for poor people's access to legal representation and the courts. He also plans to promote his vision of, and perhaps teach in, a cooperative program among the law schools of NCCU, Duke and UNC.

We wish our retiring Chancellor, Attorney Julius Chambers, well in his future endeavors on behalf of himself, his family, and mankind.

February 9, 2001 – Dr. James H. Ammons, provost and vice president for academic affairs of Florida A&M University since 1995, has been elected chancellor of North Carolina Central University by the Board of Governors of the 16-campus University of North Carolina during the board's regular February meeting. Ammons, 48, will assume his new duties June 1, succeeding Julius L. Chambers, who announced last summer that he would retire at the end of this academic year after eight years in the post.

A native of Winter Haven, Fla., Ammons earned his baccalaureate degree at FAMU, graduating in 1974 with a degree in political science. He then enrolled at Florida State University, earning a master's degree in public administration in 1975 and a doctorate in government in 1977. Ammons is married to Judy Ammons, a second-grade teacher at the Florida State University School. They have one son, James H. III, a junior at FAMU majoring in building construction and a left-fielder on the FAMU baseball team.

Ammons began his academic career at the University of Central Florida, where he served as an assistant professor of public administration from 1977 to 1983 before returning to FAMU as a professor of political science. Over the course of his 17-year tenure at FAMU, Ammons has risen steadily through the administrative ranks, serving as assistant vice president for academic affairs from 1984-89. From 1987-1988, he also served as a faculty program consultant to the Board of Regents, leading a comprehensive review of the Florida system's nine political science programs.

In 1989, Ammons was promoted to associate vice president for academic affairs and director of Title III programs, a post he held until being named FAMU's chief academic officer in 1995. During his tenure as provost and vice president for academic affairs, the campus has witnessed unprecedented growth in student enrollment, freshman SAT/ACT scores, retention and graduation rates, and academic program offerings.

Active in professional and civic organizations, Ammons has received numerous awards and honors. He was named an American Council on Education Fellow and a CIGNA Foundation Fellow in 1986-87, a Booth Ferris Fellow at the University of Wisconsin-Madison in 1993, and a Nissan-Educational Testing Service Fellow in 2000. At FAMU, he has received the 1987 Distinguished Alumni Award and the 1999 Millennium Award.

Ammons was recently elected to the Commission on Colleges of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools and has chaired numerous SACS accreditation review committees, including the 1999 SACS review of NCCU. He currently chairs the Editorial Board of the University Press of Florida and serves on the American Association of State Colleges and Universities' Task Force on the Professional Development of Teachers. He also has served on the boards of directors of the Greater Tallahassee Chamber of Commerce and the Tallahassee Marine Institute, as well as on the Promotion Review Board of the Florida Highway Patrol.

We also welcome Dr. Walter Harris, Jr., our new Provost and Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs. Dr. Harris, Jr. comes to us from Arizona State University where he served as the Vice Provost in the office of the Senior Vice President and Provost. Since arriving at NCCU, Dr. Harris has been involved in many challenging tasks, one of which is his call for a comprehensive assessment and subsequent evaluation of all university programs and services, to assist the university in prioritizing its activities and resource allocation, He is also chairing the Strategic Planning Initiatives of the University. Dr. Harris did not arrive at NCCU alone. He is here with Dr. Henrietta Harris, his wife, is the Associate Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs. History and Background

North Carolina Central University, a state-supported liberal arts institution, was chartered in 1909 as a private institution and opened to students on July 10, 1910. It was founded by Dr. James E. Shepard. To this end, the training of all students has been entrusted to the most capable teachers available.

The institution's early years were characterized by a wealth of enthusiasm and high endeavor, but not of money. Private donations and student fees constituted the total financial support of the school, and the heavy burden of collecting funds rested on the President.

In 1915, the school was sold and reorganized, then becoming the National Training School. During this period of its history, Mrs. Russell Sage of New York was a generous benefactor of the school.

In 1923, the General Assembly of North Carolina appropriated funds for the purchase and maintenance of the school; thus, in that year it became a publicly-supported institution and was renamed Durham State Normal School. Two years later, the General Assembly converted it into the North Carolina College for Negroes, dedicating it to the offering of liberal arts education and the preparation of teachers and principals of secondary schools.

At its 1927 session, the General Assembly began a program of expansion of the college plant to conform to the needs of an enlarged academic program. The interest of the honorable Angus W. McLean, then Governor of North Carolina, and his belief in the institution aided greatly in the promotion of this program. State appropriations were supplemented by a generous gift from B. N. Duke and by contributions from citizens of Durham in 1929. The 1930's afforded federal grants and State appropriations for a new program of physical expansion and improvement of educational facilities; this program continued until the beginning of World War II.

In 1937 the College was accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools as an "A" class institution and was admitted to membership in this association in 1957.

The General Assembly of 1939 authorized the establishment of graduate work in liberal arts and the professions. Pursuant thereto, graduate courses in the Arts and Sciences were first offered in that same year; the School of Law began operation in 1940, and the School of Library Science was established in 1941.

In 1947, the General Assembly changed the name of the institution to North Carolina College at Durham.

On October 6, 1947, Dr. Shepard, the founder and President of the college, died. The Board of Trustees appointed an interim committee consisting of Dr. Albert E. Manley, Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences; Miss Ruth G. Rush, Dean of Women; and Dr. Albert L. Turner, Dean of the School of Law, to administer the affairs of the institution until the election of the second president.

On January 20, 1948, Dr. Alfonso Elder was elected President of the institution. At the time of his election, Dr. Elder was serving as head of the Graduate Department of Education and had formerly been Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences. Dr. Elder retired September 1, 1963.

On August 9, 1963Dr. Samuel P. Massie was elected as the third President of the college. Dr. Massie came to the institution from Washington, D.C., where he was Associate Program Director for Undergraduate Science Education of The National Science Foundation and Professor and Chairman of the Department of Pharmaceutical Chemistry at Howard University. He resigned on February 1, 1966.

The Board of Trustees appointed an interim committee consisting of Mr. William Jones, Business Manager; Dr. Helen G. Edmonds, Graduate Dean; and Dr. William H. Brown, Professor of Education, to administer the affairs of the institution until the fourth president took office.

On July 20, 1966, Dr. Albert N. Whiting was named the fourth president of the institution. He came to North Carolina College from Baltimore, Maryland, where he had been Dean of the Faculty of Morgan State College. Dr. Whiting served as President and Chancellor from July 1, 1967, until his retirement on June 30, 1983.

In 1969, the General Assembly changed the name of the institution to North Carolina Central University. On July 1, 1972, North Carolina Central University became a constituent institution of The University of North Carolina.

On July 1, 1983, Dr. LeRoy T. Walker became Interim Chancellor of the University. He had served the institution as Chairman of the Department of Physical Education and Recreation, Head Track Coach, and Vice Chancellor for University Relations. At their February 1986 meeting, the University of North Carolina Board of Governors, at the request of the University's Board of Trustees, decreed that Dr. Walker was Chancellor of the University rather than Interim Chancellor and made that action retroactive to the beginning of his term.

On July 1, 1986Dr. Tyronza R. Richmond, formerly Dean of the School of Business, succeeded Dr. Walker as Chancellor. Prior to his arrival at North Carolina Central University, Dr. Richmond was Associate Dean and Professor at the School of Business and Public Administration at Howard University. Mission Statement

North Carolina Central University is a comprehensive university offering programs at the undergraduate and graduate levels. It is the nation's first liberal arts institution founded for African Americans. The University maintains a strong liberal arts tradition and a commitment to academic excellence in a diverse educational and cultural environment. It seeks to encourage intellectual curiosity and to enhance the academic and professional skills of its students and faculty.

The mission of the University is to prepare students academically and professionally and to promote consciousness of social responsibility and dedication to the advancement of the general welfare of the people of North Carolina, the United States, and the world. The University will serve its traditional clientele of African American students; it will also expand its commitment to meet the educational needs of a student body that is diverse in race and other socioeconomic attributes.

Teaching is the primary focus of the University. As a part of that focus, the University encourages its faculty to pursue intellectual development and rewards effective teaching. The University recognizes, however, the mutually reinforcing impact of scholarship and service on effective teaching and learning. North Carolina Central University, therefore, encourages and expects faculty and students to engage in scholarly, creative, and service activities which benefit the global community.

The University has developed Institutional Goals that are consistent with and that emanate from the ideals delineated in the University Mission Statement.

Strategic Planning Goals

1. To recruit and admit a culturally diverse student body with good potential for academic success and to retain those students to graduation.

2. To enhance academic programs, academic support systems, and cultural opportunities that encourage among students, faculty, and staff strong positive attitudes toward learning and the intellectual discipline to ensure familiarity with research and problem-solving methods, the ability to employ critical thinking skills, the ability to synthesize knowledge from many sources, the sharpening of communication skills, the capacity for self-directed learning, and a commitment to life-long education.

3. To continue to develop academic programs that provide students opportunities to acquire a knowledge of languages, an understanding of the social, the human, and the physical sciences, and of the humanities, the fine and the performing arts.

4. To advance high academic and intellectual standards to ensure increased student success on standardized subject tests and certifying examinations.

5. To foster in students intellectual inquiry and a research discipline that will result in increased numbers of graduates pursuing graduate and terminal degrees.

6. To ensure that graduates of University programs have the technical skills and knowledge requisite for applying technology to accomplishing tasks, addressing challenges, and solving problems that will arise in their chosen careers.

7. To provide educational and social environments that foster in students increased understanding of their cultural heritage and of the diversity inherent in the existing social order.

8. To encourage outstanding performance in teaching, scholarship, creativity, and service.

9. To foster new and innovative research activities that are funded through grants and partnerships.

10. To enhance and develop programs that will increase diversity among students, faculty, and staff.

11. To further promote educational, research, training, cultural, and athletic programs and events that respond to the needs of the broadening local and regional University community.

12. To monitor financial operations and personnel administration to ensure fiscal soundness and accountability for resources and services.
