Highlights of events on campus:

- HBCU Symposium – The symposium was attended by more than 400 attendees, including the U.S. Secretary of Education, Dr. Arne Duncan, who served as the keynote speaker. Also present was Dr. Belle Wheelan, President and CEO, Southern Association of Colleges and Schools; Dr. Marybeth Gasman, a scholar on fundraising/advancement, University of Pennsylvania; and Dr. Roderick McDavis, President, Ohio University. We received great newspaper coverage from the local newspaper, the Chronicle of Higher Education and Diverse Issue in Higher Education. From the symposium we are going to charter a course of action by producing a paper on historically black colleges that will be shared with the national scene, elected officials at the national and local level, higher education associations within the United States. Once this is accomplished we will convene smaller groups, on four to five areas, with HBCU’s in North Carolina to talk about how we can work collaboratively on the various issues.

- Chancellor Nelms had an opportunity to serve as a faculty member of a national leadership program called the Millennium Leadership Initiative. Eleven years ago the initiative was started by 10 black presidents/chancellors. Forty-six percent of the participants of this initiative have further their careers by becoming a president or a chancellor. It started as a black group, but has been expanded to include people of all walks of life. The group tries to identify people who have aspirations for serving as Provost, Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs, Vice Chancellor for Administration and Finance or university president or chancellor.

- A copy of the history of North Carolina Central University was distributed to all of the Board members.

- The U.S. Postal Service has created a postmark that commemorates the founding of NCCU 100 years ago. The postmark will be revealed during the dedication ceremony of the Centennial Garden and revealing the historic markers for the Shepard House, Centennial Chapel and for Hillside High School to be held on July 8, 2010 from 3:00 p.m. – 6:00 p.m.

- We are completing $100 million in special and capital projects on campus.

- The FIT Project has moved forward. We have to transition off the state payroll and we will go live October 2010 for the first group of employees and January 2011 for the remaining employees.

- Thirteen students, receiving their bachelor’s degree from the College of Science and Technology, have been accepted into graduate programs including five entering medical school.

- We have received 12,000 applications for admission to NCCU for the Fall. We have granted admission to 4,000 and we are seeking to enroll 1,400.

- Chancellor Nelms has been invited by the Southern Regional Education Board (SREB) to discuss NCCU retention efforts. NCCU is featured in a magazine published by SREB that features fifteen institutions nationally. Hopefully this will bring greater attention to NCCU and our successful efforts in our best practices that we have in place. Secondly, the Chancellor is hopeful that it gets someone interested in investing in NCCU in order for us to do a better job.
