Serving English Language Learners with Language Impairments

Course Description

There are an increasing number of culturally and linguistically diverse students who are English Language Learners (ELLs) in America’s schools. This workshop focuses on practical strategies and materials for monolingual English-speaking clinicians who serve ELLs. The workshop's contents will help clinicians who serve elementary students from any cultural-linguistic background.

Day One addresses nonbiased assessment strategies and materials that can be used to differentiate language differences from language impairments in ELL students. Day Two will focus especially on increasing working memory, improving vocabulary and overall literacy skills, implementing Common Core State Standards, and collaborating with classroom teachers.

Presenter

Dr. Celeste Roseberry-McKibbin earned her doctoral degree in Speech-Language Pathology, Language and Cognition from Northwestern University.
