TOTAL GIFTS RAISED 2014-2015
THE 2014-2015 REPORT ON PHILANTHROPY provides a summary of contributions made to North Carolina Central University by MORE THAN 6,200 alumni, faculty, staff, students, parents and friends.

Individual and institutional donors demonstrated record-level generosity and commitment with gifts totaling $7.6 MILLION; that total includes $2.2 million donated by 15 PERCENT OF OUR ALUMNI. Faculty and staff contributed to the 2014-2015 Giving Campaign at a participation rate of 76 PERCENT.

One hundred and five years after admitting our first students, we continue to depend on your contributions to help us effectively advance the university’s mission and enhance each student’s experience.

North Carolina Central University is one of the nation’s top universities offering diverse, innovative educational opportunities to students. NCCU remains at the forefront of investigating and addressing health disparities affecting African-Americans and other minority groups and making game-changing discoveries at our two advanced research institutes. As a result, the campus continues to expand its reach and impact as a premier, first-choice and global institution.

KEY PRIORITIES FOR THE UNIVERSITY:

STUDENT SUCCESS
Scholarships help NCCU improve retention rates for matriculating students, attract top scholars to campus, and develop innovative program offerings.

COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT AND PUBLIC SERVICE
In keeping with our motto of Truth and Service, NCCU students worked 237,495 volunteer hours during 2014-15, a contribution valued at $5.1 million.

INTELLECTUAL CLIMATE
NCCU sponsors a series of extracurricular programs that bring individual thought-leaders and issues of national importance to campus.

IMPROVING LIVING AND LEARNING ENVIRONMENTS
Development of a new Student Center, renovation of residence halls, and construction of a new athletics complex are our capital priorities.
Dear NCCU Donors,

Thank you for your investment in North Carolina Central University. We remain grateful to you for your commitment to our number one priority: student success. Our institution continues to lead the way in educating and equipping scholars and giving them the competitive credential they will need to succeed in the global marketplace.

Over the past fiscal year, your generous contributions have made a significant impact in the lives of the students we serve. Each of you — our alumni, faculty, staff and friends, along with our corporate and foundation partners and organizations — assisted in providing near record-setting support totaling $7.6 million. Collectively, your gifts are improving North Carolina Central University by providing critical scholarships and creating research opportunities for our students. Our classrooms are led by faculty who are global leaders in their respective fields and who prepare and provide our students with lifelong learning opportunities so they can excel and succeed before and after graduation.

From our programs in the STEM disciplines, nursing, pharmaceutical sciences and the biosciences, to our innovations in business, education, law and liberal arts, NCCU is training some of the best and brightest scientists, medical doctors, health disparities researchers, musicians, marketers, educators, attorneys and business leaders in the Triangle, throughout North Carolina, around our nation and across the world.

In September 2014, the Division of Institutional Advancement launched “The Road to Eagle Excellence” Key Cities Tour. We traveled to six cities and engaged our major constituent communities, including many of you, and encouraged support for the university. (Please see story on page 35.) A special thank you is due to our alumni hosts, corporate partners and donors who supported us at these events.

As we celebrate North Carolina Central University’s 105th anniversary, we commemorate a solid legacy of “Truth and Service” that is synonymous with excellence, innovation, integrity and quality. Our institution will continue to thrive in the centuries to come and deliver on our promise of being the gateway to opportunity.

Thank you for investing in our future leaders and North Carolina Central University!

In Truth and Service,

Dr. Debra Saunders-White
Chancellor
Dear NCCU Supporters,

All of us at North Carolina Central University value and appreciate your ongoing support and dedication to helping students realize their dreams. With your invaluable commitment to excellence, we achieved one of the highest institutional records in 2014-2015 by raising more than $7.6 million in a single fiscal year. This would not have been possible without all of you.

With the generosity and support of donors, NCCU provides an enhanced academic environment for our students. We are grateful for your continuous support of Eagle Excellence through giving. Our alumni participation rate increased from 12 percent to 15 percent over the past year, generating $2.2 million in 2014-2015, as Eagles gave back in record numbers! Additionally, 76 percent of NCCU faculty and staff also contributed to the institution.

The Division of Institutional Advancement has created a culture of philanthropy that is engaging more current and potential donors than ever before. In June 2015, we launched the “Every Eagle. Every Year.” Giving Campaign. This campaign rallies “every Eagle” to give to North Carolina Central University “every year.” As part of the campaign kickoff, we issued a challenge on social media that received enthusiastic response from many millennial alumni and members of other affinity groups. (Please read about one of our young, first-time donors on page 23.)

Please know that every dollar entrusted to our care is leveraged and tracked to ensure that it reaches its maximum potential for improving the lives of current and future students, who are and will remain our No. 1 priority. Not only are we able to help students discover their individual pathways to success, we also encourage them to give back to have a tangible and meaningful impact on succeeding generations.

Thank you again for your support and your generosity. With you, we are able to realize our mission of providing students with access to quality education while building a brighter future for successive generations in North Carolina.

Sincerely,

Harriet F. Davis

Harriet Frink Davis, Ph.D.

The Chautauqua Heritage Society honors and thanks all those who have made a commitment to North Carolina Central University in a will or trust, life insurance or life income annuity or through the gift of real estate, and who have informed the university of their intentions. The Chautauqua Heritage Society’s name recalls the original title of North Carolina Central University — the National Religious Training School and Chautauqua for the Colored Race.

The first Chautauqua took place beside a lake of the same name in New York state. The movement that drew together people for educational lectures, sermons, performances and debates was popular in the early 1900s, when NCCU was founded. Just as the university today is the legacy of the Chautauqua movement, you will leave your legacy as a member of the Chautauqua Heritage Society by supporting students, researchers and faculty of NCCU.

Members of the Chautauqua Heritage Society have made the commitment to include a college, school, program or scholarship fund as a beneficiary in their will or trust. Bequests are not subject to estate taxes, reducing tax liability for their heirs. Gifts may include residences, vacation homes or acreage through a “remainder interest” deeded to the NCCU Foundation. Contributions may also include appreciated assets, such as stocks or life insurance policies, that offer important tax benefits.

For more detailed information about wills and estate plans and the Chautauqua Heritage Society, please contact 919-530-5264 or email giving@nccu.edu.

Richard Miller Leaves Largest Single Alumni Gift to University

ALUMNUS RICHARD ALLEN MILLER passed away in 2013 and left a bequest of more than $351,000 for an endowed scholarship in the NCCU Athletics Department. His gift was the largest individual gift from an alumnus of North Carolina Central University. Miller remained a lifelong fan of NCCU athletics – despite moving 500 miles to coach at Tennessee State University for nearly half a century.

As a freshman, Miller arrived at NCCU to play basketball for Coach John McLendon and became a star player for the Eagles as they won the first Central Intercollegiate Athletic Association championship. After graduation in 1948, he served in the U.S. Army, then earned a master’s degree at Tennessee State University and a doctorate at the University of Indiana. But he never forgot his roots at NCCU.

That gift was formally recognized by the Board of Trustees in 2015, when they voted to name an academic resource center in McDougald-McLendon Arena the Richard A. Miller Computer Lab for this former Eagle whose star qualities shined both on and off the court.

Upon his death in 2013, Miller left a bequest of more than $351,000 for an endowed scholarship in the NCCU Athletics Department.

THE REPORT ON PHILANTHROPY 2014-2015 13
HELLENA HUNTLEY AND ISAIAH TIDWELL once pooled their money to share a double Popsicle at NCCU in the 1960s. The couple, married now for 48 years, still keeps those leftover Popsicle sticks around as a reminder of humble beginnings.

After graduating from NCCU, Isaiah launched a career in corporate banking that transcended glass ceilings and paved the way for upcoming African-Americans in the field. Hellena, a psychology major, became a top fundraiser for Winston-Salem State University and the Arts and Science Council of Charlotte/Meckenburg, among others.

Throughout their marriage, the Tidwells’ commitment to philanthropy and public service has benefitted the communities where they lived and worked. They’ve also shown an ongoing commitment to NCCU.

Isaiah steered a corporate donation of $500,000 from Wachovia to establish an endowed chair at NCCU in 1999. In 2015, the couple established a $100,000 scholarship in the names of his parents, William and Anna Davis Tidwell, saying: “It seemed fitting to honor my parents with a gift to future generations.”

It seemed fitting to honor my parents with a gift to future generations.”

A Champion for Equality in Education

NCCU School of Law is uniquely honored to be the adopted alma mater of ATTORNEY AND FORMER CLERK OF THE U.S. SUPREME COURT JOHN D. FASSETT, who served as clerk to Justice Stanley Reed, considered a key vote on the 1954 Brown v. Board of Education decision. Fassett, who attended Yale University, chose NCCU’s Law Library in 2012 to receive the John D. Fassett Collection, a comprehensive body of work featuring documents written by and about Supreme Court Justices. Fassett also donated memorabilia from his term on the court and items related to Brown v. Board of Education, the case that brought an eventual end to segregation in America’s public schools.

In 2015, the NCCU School of Law received a separate $250,000 gift from Fassett to fund an endowed professorship focusing on constitutional law, human rights and civil rights. The University of North Carolina General Administration matched that gift, creating a $500,000 endowment.
Scholarship Recipient Continues Quest for Educational Quality

When DR. CECELLIA STEPPE-JONES retired as dean of the School of Education in 2011, her colleagues and friends created an endowed scholarship in her honor.

Dr. Steppe-Jones spent much of her career training effective teachers and devising better ways to recruit, prepare and retain quality teachers in public schools.

Senior YOLANDA BLACK, this year’s recipient of the Steppe-Jones scholarship, expresses a vision that aligns with that of the gift’s namesake.

"I always wanted to be a teacher, and especially to promote better education for minorities. It is the right of all minorities to have equal access and opportunities in education, and one day I plan to write new curriculum that will be more responsive to minorities, as well."

— YOLANDA BLACK, SENIOR

NCCU Supports Students
From Start to Finish

NCCU has kicked off the Finish Line Initiative and Minimum Admissions Requirements Pilot Program. The programs have become an essential element moving NCCU toward its goals of increased student retention and graduation rates.

The Minimum Admissions Requirements (MAR) Pilot Program allows the university to provide academic attainment to prospective students with high GPAs but are slightly short of the minimum SAT requirements. The program also ensures students succeed academically and subsequently become outstanding employment prospects. The Finish Line Initiative provides funding to help seniors who need additional coursework in the summer following their intended graduation. To date, 53 students have benefited from the program.

This laudable effort has been greatly enhanced by a gift from NCCU Board of Trustees Member Michael P. Johnson, who donated $50,000 to make the programs available to more students.

Johnson, an alumnus with a degree in business administration, now serves as president and chief executive officer of J&A Group, LLC. His generous gift is his way of paying back to the university that molded him, just as it continues to do for today’s students.

TERRY CRUMPLER, a 2010 North Carolina Central University School of Business graduate, was the first donor to the Divine Nine Giving Challenge in 2015. Crumpler, a member of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, Inc., was among several Millennials who graduated to provide first-time donations to NCCU during 2015.

“I’ve made many lasting memories and connections at ‘Dear Ol’ NCC,’ and I want other Eagles to have the same or an even greater experience,” he said.

As an alumnus, Crumpler worked for a time in the Division of Institutional Advancement, which he says gave him a first-hand look at the rich history of the university and planted the seeds for his donation.

The Divine Nine Giving Challenge calls on sorority and fraternity members who were initiated at NCCU to stay involved and offer financial support to their alma mater.

Paying It Forward

Alumni BESSIE M. AND CORNELL SLADE share a love for North Carolina Central University that runs deeps and spans more than 40 years. The Slades, both members of the class of 1975, first met in high school in Edgecombe County, N.C., before attending NCCU.

The couple has maintained strong connections to their alma mater while developing successful professional careers. Bessie Slade, who earned a degree in sociology, worked as a vocational counselor and later in clinical social work before turning her full attention to raising their two children. Cornell Slade applied his NCCU business degree as a risk management specialist before becoming president of The Best Egg Co. of Graettinger, Iowa, which supplies liquid eggs for many of McDonald’s breakfast items.

At their 40th class reunion, the Slades established two endowments: the Bessie M. Slade Endowed Scholarship and the Cornell Slade Endowed Scholarship, each valued at $30,000. Both of these annual, renewable scholarships are designated for Eagles who are first-year students from Edgecombe County with demonstrated financial need.

“I truly believe in giving back, as our education at NCCU set forth the path that has allowed us to be successful,” said Bessie Slade.

Cornell Slade said NCCU gave him the skill set to compete in a competitive global environment and reinforced an important lesson that he first learned from his father: “You have to work hard and reach back to help others.”
Tasty Ambitions

SHALOM HAM was inspired by the culinary arts program at Northern Durham High School. “My passion became cooking,” says the now 21-year-old senior at NCCU.

Setting his sights on a career in professional food service, Mr. Ham wrestled with how to pay for college. He was fifth in a family of 10 children from rural Durham County, and knew he had to find a way to be self-sufficient.

Tapping grants, loans and applications for scholarships, Ham was able to enroll in NCCU’s Hospitality and Tourism Administration program in fall 2012. Through hard work in class, a full-time job, and a boost from the J.W. Marriott Foundation Endowed Scholarship his junior year, Ham was able to complete the Hospitality and Tourism program and will receive his degree in May 2016. Next on the horizon: attending law school to train as an attorney for the hospitality industry.

“ I love this field because of all the things you can be a part of – hotels, restaurants, casinos, resorts and museums.”

— SHALOM HAM, SENIOR

Chemistry major KATYA DE LA TORRE says the GlaxoSmithKline Women in Science Scholarship has put her career on an upward trajectory. The 2015 graduate is now working as a research technician at NCCU while in the process of applying to medical school. “The scholarship has been extremely useful in helping me afford the fees required for medical school applications,” de la Torre said. The funding also enabled her to attend professional conferences where she was inspired by the presentations of established women scientists. “Going to medical school is what I always wanted to do, but this program gave me a better understanding of some of the other ways women are contributing to scientific research. I plan to continue doing research as a doctor.”

“The scholarship has been extremely useful in helping me afford the fees required for medical school applications.”

North Carolina Central University’s Division of Institutional Advancement launched “The Road to Eagle Excellence” Key Cities Tour in September 2014. The purpose of the tour was to engage and visit alumni, friends and university partners in cities across the United States. These visits provided an opportunity for Chancellor Debra Saunders-White and other members of the NCCU community to present an update on the state of the university, while encouraging support and continued investment in the institution.

Your generous gifts and support make Eagle Excellence possible for North Carolina Central University students!

During the 2014-15 fiscal year, the combined gifts of more than 6,200 NCCU faculty, staff, alumni, parents and friends, together with our corporate and foundation partners, helped us to raise $7.6 million.

Your contributions provide critical funds for scholarships and allow our students to continue and complete their education. Thank you for your continued investment in Eagle Excellence!
