October 31, 2016,

Dear Faculty and Staff:

Our annual Faculty and Staff Giving Campaign and the annual State Employees Combined Campaigns (SECC) will begin on Nov. 1. This year, we have combined the two campaigns to help make the donation process more convenient.

As you know, the SECC allows state employees to contribute through their paychecks to any of approximately 1,000 agencies that play a pivotal role in our community. This year the NCCU Foundation is one of those agencies. Separately, the Faculty and Staff campaign raises funds that go directly to our university to increase our ability to make an impact on student success.

“Truth and Service” abounds on this campus. Whenever someone is in need, your benevolence and caring attitude for the community and university come shining through. We appreciate your previous gifts, and we are asking for your commitment again this year. However large or small, your donation will make a positive impact on students at the university and on the lives of many citizens who are in need.

Several team captains have been recruited to assist you and answer any questions you may have. Please thoughtfully consider supporting the Faculty and Staff and SECC campaigns. Our focus is on participation and not gift size. By increasing the number of donors, we know that we can make this year’s campaigns a success. Let’s show our campus and the citizens of North Carolina that NCCU faculty and staff members stand solidly behind student growth and progress.

Sincerely,

Johnson O. Akinleye, Ph.D.
Acting Chancellor
Provost and Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs
